CREATIVE EUROPE

CREATIVE EUROPE is a programme that promotes the audiovisual industry in Europe and the cultural and creative industries. The programme runs from 2014 to 2020 and has a budget of € 1.46 billion Euro.

The aims of CREATIVE EUROPE are: to give projects a European added value in order to increase their international success, to promote the professionalization of the players on an international level and to open up new audiences.

With its three sub-programmes MEDIA (for the audiovisual industry and game developers), CULTURE (for other artistic disciplines) and CROSS-SECTOR (music and cross-sector education) it aims to support European cooperation projects, networks, platforms and literary translations as well as film distributors, festivals and international co-productions.

Applications are open to cultural and artistic organizations from EU countries, but also to various non-EU states.

EUREKA

The EUREKA network is a European initiative for the initiation and implementation of applied, cross-border research and the development of projects for civilian purposes.

Its goals are:

- Promoting European competitiveness in world markets
- Linking Europe's potential with professionals, know-how, facilities and financial resources
- Developing European infrastructures and standards
- Creating access to new markets
- Strengthening the European internal market.

Within EUREKA there are no thematic requirements, the project participants decide independently on their project contents as well as the nature and duration of their cooperation. Applications may be submitted by companies, research institutions and other institutions under private or public law. The participants have a contact person in the respective country, the National Project Coordinator (NPC). EUREKA is not a centrally organized funding programme. Financing is the responsibility of participants at national level - through public or private funding or own resources.
