

Conference "Diverse Securities"

Field: Safe Societies

Dates: 27-28 June 2019

Location: Berlin

Organizer: Fachdialog Sicherheitsforschung

Security perceptions are just as diverse today as the actors, measures and technologies for producing and maintaining security. This year's Security Dialogue conference addresses the complexity and contradictions of security in today's society. It will take place on 27 and 28 June 2019 in the Harnack-Haus in Berlin-Dahlem under the title "Diverse Securities - Social Dimensions of Security Research". The event picks up on future-oriented issues related to civil security and makes references to the framework programme of the German Federal Government. The expert public in the field of civil security research is invited.

The conference will focus on three areas: The first session "Designing and Controlling Diversified Securities" will address, among other topics, the importance of federal structures and the advancing digitization. The second session, entitled "Structures of Vulnerability," deals with specific security-related phenomena and spaces, such as station districts and urban neighborhoods. The third session "Forces: Challenges, Resources, Reflections" is dedicated to emergency services as well as authorities and organizations with security tasks, taking a new look at their relationship to the population.
